[Oklahoma City, OK] The Chickasaw Nation and Quintessa Marketing present the 15th annual Boots and Ball Gowns benefiting Infant Crisis Services at the Oklahoma City Convention Center on Saturday, March 9th. The agency, which is celebrating 40 years of service, is excited to welcome over one-thousand supporters with dinner, cocktails, a silent auction, dancing, and entertainment by the Royal Dukes Band and Inspyral Circus.

“Boots and Ball Gowns is one big celebration of our community’s generosity and commitment to feeding and diapering Oklahoma’s infants and toddlers,” said Miki Farris, Co-founder and Executive Director at Infant Crisis Services, “We cannot imagine a better way to toast to 40 years than with a sold-out room filled with our nearest and dearest friends.”

Voted as one of Oklahoma's Best Charity Events, Boots and Ball Gowns is made possible thanks to Presenting Diamond Sponsors, the Chickasaw Nation and Quintessa Marketing, as well as Turquoise Presenting Sponsors, Caption Partners, Ketchum Charitable Foundation, MidFirst Bank, and Valor Bank. Kate Gordon and Katty Gasbarra are this year’s Gala Marshals. All proceeds from the gala provide food, formula, and diapers to infants and toddlers across the state.
